

HomeAbout UsTravel DestinationsPhotosThe Big OnePark ReportsFavourites

Moonta Bay South Australia - January 26th 2005 to January 29th 2005.

Moonta Bay Caravan Park is located 167kms North West of Adelaide and is situated on the Eastern side of Spencer Gulf.

THURS 26th JANUARY 2005: With a slow leisurely trip planned for the day, we left home at 8.40am heading for Moonta Bay where Sue and Malcolm were holidaying for a 2 week period. It was an extended weekend away for us but the purpose of this trip for us was to spend some time with Sue and Malcolm. After an easy drive, we soon arrived before the check in time of 11.00am. The weather was now hot and not very nice to be out in the sun. We had no shade over our powered site so it was on with the air conditioner as soon as the power was on to the caravan. The evening remained warm to hot which made it nice for sitting outside watching the sun go down.

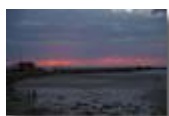

Moonta Bay jetty where lots of people will at times congregate to escape from the heat of the day.

Moonta Bay's SeaGate Bristo situated at the jetty car park to the left and beach walkers enjoying the cool water during the late afternoon.

FRI 27th JANUARY 2005: Late morning we headed of to Kadina with Sue and Malcolm where they did some shopping before we returned to Moonta Bay to enjoy a cooler afternoon than the previous day.

It was a pleasant evening for taking photos as the sun was setting.

SAT 28th JANUARY 2005: Another day to sit around the Caravan Park with nothing to do but to relax and talk to people as they walked by. After a good meal at one of the local Moonta Hotels, it was again time to enjoy another sunset over a glass of good red wine.

Great sky colours for some nice sunset photos.

It was a nice evening to walk out onto the local Moonta Bat town jetty where there were several people trying their luck at fishing.

SUN 29th JANUARY 2006: After a slow start to the day, it was time to relax for a short period of time before we ate lunch and then packed up before starting our trip back to Adelaide where we had been invited out for tea by Bruce and Maree. With just under two hours on the road, we arrived home by 3.30pm to put the caravan away until our next trip which will be to Broken Hill on the 10th of March 2006.

top of page